The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846. In 1874 the Courier was established and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1885, and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

There is no tyrant like custom, and no freedom where its edicts are not resisted—Bovee.

Duluth, Minn., leads the school honor roll of the American Bankers Association in class A school systems—those having an enrollment of more than 10,000 pupils. School savings deposits are carried by 99.7 per cent of the pupils of that city. In class B, enrollment 5,000 to 10,000, Evanston, Ill., stands first, with a percentage of 77.3 pupils participating in the school banking system. Peikin, Ill., leads in class C, enrollment 2,000 to 5,000, with a percentage of 100; and Allentown, N. C., also with a full 100 per cent, leads in class D, enrollment under 2,000.

Up to this time neither Senator Burton K. Wheeler nor his eminent counsel, Senator Walsh, has blamed those Montana earthquake shocks on the Department of Justice.

Sardines Led In New England Canned Fishery Products Last Year.

Sardines canned in Maine and Massachusetts made up a greater portion of the New England canned fishery products last year, with Connecticut and Rhode Island contributing a share in the total, according to figures issued by the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Fisheries.

Sardines, canned at 28 plants in Maine and one in Massachusetts, totaled 1,819,868 cases valued at $7,191,062 last year, while soft clams to the total of 80,561 cases valued at $459,882 were canned at 19 plants in Maine and the Bay State. These two states, together with Rhode Island, Florida, Georgia and Washington, canned, also, 156,613 cases of other hard and soft clam products valued at $565,912. Rhode Island had one razor clam canning plant.

Maine, also, had one crab canning plant, which, together with those in Alaska, Maryland and Mississippi, canned 3,603 cases valued at $35,944. Fishery by-products were manufactured in Connecticut, one menhaden industry, Rhode Island, shell products, and Maine and Massachusetts miscellaneous by-products.

Connecticut's menhaden industry, together with two such plants in New York, manufactured 78,797,109 menhaden valued at $475,314 into dry scrap and fish meal valued at $50,800 and acidulated scrap worth $117,037, there being 976 and 5,423 tons, respectively, of each. A total of 676,143 gallons of oil was also manufactured in these industries, being valued at $272,607.

Rhode Island, together with New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, manufactured crushed oyster shell into 12,634 tons of poultry grit, and 3,695 tons of lime, valued at $158,044 and $14,438 respectively.

Maine and Massachusetts miscellaneous by-products were valued at $920,917.

DOINGS OF THE CHAMBER

With the publication of the bulletin printed below the Rockland Chamber of Commerce starts a new policy, that of issuing its bulletins weekly instead of monthly. The new plan will keep the members in close touch with the innumerable daily doings of the office and must prove of very real value to the organization in promoting its general tone and pep. Any suggestions as to material for these bulletins will be cordially welcomed by the acting secretary and all contributions will be given earnest consideration. Turn to, you Chamber of Commerce members and get an idea on paper or telephone it to 860 for next week's Bulletin.

Since July 1st the Chamber has been without the services of a secretary, but the assistant secretary has carried on the affairs along the usual lines. The usual number of queries as to summer boarding houses, cottages, camping sites, fishing grounds, etc., have been received and as promptly answered. The office lists all cottages and camps to rent and will welcome such information at any time. The directors meet once each week and consider the material assembled by the acting secretary and other sources. The finance committee, President Bicknell, E. D. Spear and C. A. Emery, have been remarkably successful, so much so in fact that the budget now balances up to November 1st, the end of the fiscal year.

The Moody underwear factory project, probably the most vital objective of the Chamber at present, has been the subject of constant effort on the part of the directors. Harry Moody, representing Risk, Moody & Robinson, has met with the directors, visited the proposed site, the Berlausk building on Brick street, and declares it ideal for starting operations with fifty girls employed. He would start manufacture this fall and eventually employ up to two hundred hands. The matter of bank credits and matters financial are now being arranged and the outlook is bright for the new industry.

Forty-seven cars have availed themselves of the privileges of the Chamber's Tourist Camp thus far this week. Water, toilet arrangements and ample parking space are provided. Through a misunderstanding no fee has been charged, but the Indian basketmaker, Peter Riddo, will hereafter be ground custodian and collect the customary half dollar. The big new sign is in place and other guide signs are being set.

The secretary went to the hearing on Highway "D" the road from Rockport to Coopers' Mills, in accordance with the desires of the directors and spoke in behalf of the project. He was able to do some personal work with Commissioners Peabody and Lannigan and was given their assurance that the road would be rebuilt.

AFTER HALE'S SCALP

Former Governor Baxter To Run For U. S. Senator 'Tis Said.

The Lewiston Journal of Thursday published this interesting political story:

Former Gov. Baxter is whetting his scalp knife on his war paint preparatory to taking the war path in 1928 on the trail of United States Senator Hale.

Mr. Baxter has made no proclamation to this effect. At the same time he has never denied that such was his intent, and for the past three weeks the rumor that he was going after Senator Hale's political scalplock has grown in intensity.

One man, known to have been very friendly, politically, with Mr. Baxter, is reported as having told of a conversation in which he asked the former Governor point blank whether he intended to oppose Senator Hale for the nomination in the next campaign. To this query, Mr. Baxter is said to have replied: "I've not made up my mind; that is in the future."

This is the most direct statement he has ever made in regard to the senatorship although his name has been constantly linked with it since he came to the House of Representatives in 1917. At that time it was declared that he aspired to go to the U. S. Senate. When in 1921 he went to the Senate of Maine, became its head and then Governor, through the death of Gov. Parkhurst, the political dopesters made it unanimous that at the end of his term as Governor he would seek to oust either Fernald or Hale.

As the time approached when he was to turn over the affairs of Maine to Gov. Brewster rumors were many but Gov. Baxter declined to comment. It was always the same. He was going to finish his job, before he went looking for thinking about any other. At last the day of the Brewster inauguration came. The retiring and incoming Governor shook hands in the executive chamber, offered his best wishes for a successful administration, left the State House, entered his brother Rupert's automobile and drove away from that hour, he withdrew from the limelight of public affairs.

But once since he retired from the Governorship has Mr. Baxter made what might be termed a public appearance. That was on the night of the complimentary dinner to the visiting governors which Maine tendered to the Governor's conference at Poland Spring. He was present, sat at the head table, but beyond that was as inconspicuous as the most retiring of the plain citi-

TO CONTROL CONGRESS

This is the Aim of the Democrats, Preparing For Next Year's Campaign.

With the Democrats already laying the foundation for a determined campaign to regain control of Congress, the 1926 congressional elections give promise now of attracting an unusual share of national interest.

Under the leadership of Representative Oldfield, of Arkansas, the Democratic Congressional committee has begun its organization work with a view to centering its efforts largely in what are generally regarded as the closed districts.

At the same time, the Republican organization is preparing to meet the attacks of the Democrats and also to carry the fight to the enemy in a number of Democratic strongholds.

Returning today from organization meetings in Missouri and Indiana, Representative Oldfield announced that he would leave soon for a swing through the west on a similar mission.

GOVERNOR HERE MONDAY

Governor Brewster, heading the publicity tour of the State Chamber of Commerce and other groups, will arrive in this city Monday night at 5:30 daylight time, on the steamer Brandon of the Portland, Eastport line. From Tilson wharf the visiting party will be escorted to the Rockland High School building by Rockland Band, Battery G and as many citizens and members of the Rockland Chamber of Commerce as may be. The speaking by Gov. Brewster and members of his party will occupy something less than an hour, when the visitors will be treated to a motor trip over the city, to Warrenton and Samoset-by-the-Sea, Owl's Head, Crescent Beach and the Limerock quarries. The departure of the Brandon for Eastport is scheduled for 7:30.

It is the desire of the entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce headed by Henry B. Bird, that the visiting party be given a rousing reception, and it is essential that there be a good turnout of citizens at Tilson wharf and at the High School building if a good impression of the city is to be given. Gov. Brewster has an exceedingly interesting message to deliver, and his associates are the State's foremost citizens. Every man and woman should consider attendance at the meeting a civic duty as well as a privilege.

In order that there may be no uncertainty as to the time of the Brandon's arrival Chairman Bird has arranged that the bell of the First Baptist church be rung shortly after the steamer passes White Head, allowing citizens time to assemble at Tilson's wharf to witness the docking of the boat which will be close to 5:30. When the Brandon blows her whistle for the wharf, a chorus of welcome is planned from every steam whistle available. All of the Lime Company's plants will be heard from, tugs and trawlers, the McLoon fleet and all visiting craft. It is hoped will lead their strength to the clamor of industrial welcome. This chorus will continue for from three to five minutes. The committee is desirous that the city make its best possible appearance before the governor's party because in it are prominent men and women from all over, and their good word of the city will have a great influence for good in the future.

CAPTAIN AND ENGINEER HELD

Latest Developments In the Big Liquor Seizure On Smith Barge Number One.

Capt. Stewart Miles of Camden, N. J., and Samuel Gordon of Boston, commander and engineer, respectively, of the booze barge Smith No. 1, were taken to Portland Thursday afternoon by Deputy Collector H. W. Thordike and arraigned before Commissioner George F. Gould in U. S. District Court on the charges of conspiracy, possession and transportation. Both men waived hearing after pleading not guilty and at the recommendation of Mr. Dyer were held in $3000 bail each. They were dismayed at the prospect of confinement until the September term of court, as they stated that they could not secure bonds nor could they get in touch with their employers, they said because they did not know their identity.

In connection with the hearing the Press Herald said:

Capt. Miles, a short, lean, sea-tanned man who has followed the barge trade 25 years, is a man of few words and at first he simply stated that he loaded the cargo at Eastport and knew nothing more about it. Investigation at Eastport showed this to be untrue, customs officers declared. Persistent inquiry by Mr. Dyer, the district attorney, led to a declaration by Miles that he was out of work in New York around the first of July and answered an advertisement in a newspaper, signing as a barge captain. He was taken to the waterfront and put aboard the barge now in customs hands, he said, and was not informed that he was expected to do other than engage in the New York-Norfolk coal carrying trade. He said that young Gordon was aboard the craft when he arrived but this, Gordon, who volunteers nothing except that he has no connection with the rum trade, denied.

Satisfied with a salary of $125 monthly, Miles asked a few questions, he said, and July 4 the barge was towed by an unidentified tug out of New York harbor. The captain thought he was going along the New Jersey coast, he said, but could not tell because the barge compass was out of order.

Definite proof of the plans of New York rum rings to unload cargoes from rum ships off the coast of Maine and then take their chance of safe delivery in New York after transportation of liquor along the coast, is thought by District Attorney Dyer to be in his possession as a result of the seizure.

"Every effort to get evidence against the higher-ups in this rum running plot will be made," declared District Attorney Dyer, after listening to revelations of the barge captain, and "I will ask for conspiracy indictments against whoever we believe to be connected with the affair."

BUYS TWO LAKERS

Eastern Will Use Its New Craft In Portland-New York Service.

Eastern Steamship Lines Inc., has made an advantageous trade with the Shipping Board for two Lake-type freighters of the government fleet tied up at Staten Island which it is proposed to use on the Portland-New York service. The two freighters are the S. S. Lake Bartholomew and the S. S. Lake Floravista, 4045 tons dead weight each, 251 feet long and 43 feet beam. They have been out of commission for four years but have been run very little by the Government.

Eastern Steamship pays $25,000 each for these boats, subject to an agreement to reconition them. If the expense of reconitioning exceeds $25,000 for each boat, as it undoubtedly will, there will be no further payment to the government. The entire cost to Eastern Steamship, purchase price and reconitioning expense, is not likely to go over $80,000 per boat, after which the company will have two ships which could not be duplicated new for several times their cost.

At present the Portland-New York freight service is handled by the Steamship Cornish and Steamship Wilton about 1825 tons each, with three trips weekly. It is expected that the two freighters will take the place of the Cornish and Wilton, and with an expected 10 1/2 to 11 knots speed they will be able to continue the three trips a week service. The Cornish and Wilton will then probably be transferred to another route.

The Boston-New York passenger travel on the two new Eastern Steamship boats, the New York and Boston, is running heavy, with 1100 to 1200 passengers a day right along, and reaching a maximum of 1300.

It's a good bet that one William G. McAdoo hasn't been sitting up nights worrying about the trouble between Governor Al Smith and the New York legislature.

"The Rosary," by Edward E. Rose, will be the offering by the Gladys Klark Company for Wednesday and Thursday and matinees at the Strand. "The Rosary" has been endorsed by public, press and clergy of all denominations. Backed by the endorsements of such eminent persons as President Eliot, Dr. Parkhurst, Rev. Allyn K. Foster, Ella Wheeler Wilcox and hundreds and even thousands of others, "The Rosary," founded on the "Emblem of Purity," preaches a moral lesson, so these notable think, even better than a sermon. There are many bright comedy situations and delightful love scenes in the play objectionable, hence the endorsements of the notable people who have and it is entirely free from anything commended it to the public—adv.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

POCAHONTAS

Wearied arm and broken sword
Wage in vain the desperate fight:
Round him press a countless horde,
He is but a single knight.
Hark, a cry of triumph shrill
Through the wilderness resounds,
As with twenty bleeding wounds
Sinks the warrior fighting still.
Now they heap the fatal pyre,
And the torch of death they light:
Ah! 'tis hard to die of fire!
Who will shield the captive knight?
Round the stake with flench cry
Wheel and dance the savage crowd,
Cold the victim's mien and proud,
And his breast is bare to die.
Who will shield the fearless heart?
Who avert the murderous blade?
From the throng, with sudden start,
See there springs an Indian maid.
Quick she stands before the knight:
"Loose the chain, unbind the raig;
I am daughter of the king,
And I claim the Indian right."
Dauntlessly aside she flings
Lifted axe and bloody knife;
Fondly to his heart she clings,
And her bosom guards his life!
In the wood of Twolatan,
Still 'tis told by Indian fires,
How a daughter of their sires
Saved the captive English knight.

King Hiram's Shipmates have their annual picnic tomorrow, and could scarcely have chosen a more delightful spot for it than Ed. Gonia's cottage in Cushing. The members and their guests will leave at 10 a. m. Those who have cars with spare room and those who desire transportation are requested to assemble at Masonic Temple.

The current issue of "Modern Marriage" contains an article entitled "I Present a Little New Life," the author being Edna Porter, whose husband, John Newton Porter of New York, was a former resident of Ingraham Hill. The Brewer Stock Co. closed a three weeks' engagement in this city Wednesday, and left yesterday for Rochester, N. Y., where they will make the first of several stands on their way to Florida. Due to poor weather, competition and other complications, Mr. Brewer lost heavily in this city, but accepts his hard luck with the philosophy gathered only by long experience in the show business, and looks forward to brighter days. Trustees and officials of State Institutions, banding under the name of the Maine State Welfare Conference of Social Workers, held their 8th annual meeting in Augusta Thursday. Mrs. Lilla Elliot of Thomaston was elected first vice president. An address was delivered by Gov. Brewster.

The chief of the kitchen at the big public supper to be given in K. K. hall from 5 to 7 tonight will be Mrs. John V. Sullivan, which in itself is a guarantee of a fine feed. Miss Kate Costello will be field marshal of the affair, supervising from the dining room. Baked beans and cold meats will be the chief attractions.

Miss Malvina Wentworth, doctor of education, formerly of this city, is to be head of the department of education at Mt. Holyoke College the coming year. The position is a flattering one and especially so as Mt. Holyoke is Miss Wentworth's own alma mater. She will be an assistant professor, with the title of full professor the second year.

Next Thursday is the day of the Children's Playground picnic, the place Oakland Park and the time and place for the children to gather, the Playground, at 10 o'clock. It is essential that every youngster be there and promptly because President John E. Davies and Director Emily Pease have a surprise to spring that includes every boy and girl.

The recollection of Rev. Mr. MacArthur's brilliant address before the Baptist Men's League last winter will incline many to hear him at the First Baptist church tomorrow, when he will speak morning and evening. As son of the noted Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, it is not surprising that the younger man ranks among the prominent platform speakers of the day. It is a privilege to have men of this calibre come to our city during the vacation period.

Everybody and his wife will be on Tillson wharf watching for the Steamer Brandon with Gov. Brewster's publicity party on board when it appears around Owls Head about 5.30 Monday night. Thereafter everybody will naturally follow the Rockland Band and Battery G to the High School Building where brief speaking exercises will be held in the auditorium. Gov. Brewster has a message of vital importance to deliver. The hour from 6.30 to 7.30 will be devoted to a sightseeing tour and the departure of the Brandon from Tillson wharf at 7.30 will doubtless be witnessed by many spectators. The ringing of the bell of the First Baptist church will tell when the Brandon is past White Head and her arrival in Rockland Harbor a half hour later will be made known by the general blowing of whistles.

It is an unusual sight upon a golf course when three generations in one family take part in a round. It was seen at the Rockland Country Club yesterday afternoon when William A. Orel E. Davies, president of the Children's Playground Association, has had his ire aroused by the liberties which hoodlums are taking on the Playground nights. Too bad when the citizens raise money for this institution, and local men give valuable time to its supervision, that there should be anybody sneaky mean enough to destroy property. The police have been instructed to give the Playground the once over at occasional intervals each night. Somebody will get something more than a spanking if found meddling with the apparatus.

A large audience greeted the participants in the O'Hara-Rugg recital at the Baptist church last evening and lavished appreciative applause upon the singer, Ogarita Rose Rugg, dramatic soprano, and James J. O'Hara, organist. It was Mrs. Rugg's first appearance before a home audience since her course of vocal study under New York teachers and the delight with which her glorious voice was listened to received ample acknowledgment. Mr. O'Hara's work at the organ justified all the high opinions with which local audiences have come to regard his finished playing. Nor should notice be withheld of Mrs. O'Hara's excellent piano accompaniments. In the audience were many music lovers from adjoining towns. So fine a midsummer musical treat merits a more extended notice, which is reserved to the next issue of this paper.

Among the bits of color recorded at Rotary luncheon yesterday was a challenge from the Forty Club for a contest at golf, each club to present eight players, the lowest net aggregate to constitute the winner. The challenge was promptly accepted and the contest will take place on the Country Club course at an early date. Rotarians present from other cities were Bill Stark from Orange, Texas (in whose honor the club sang "Dixie") Herb Farrier of Boston, Harry Childs of Lewiston and Harry Jackson of Lebanon, N. H., and other guests were Rev. J. L. Darsie of Pittsburg, Austin Russell of Ellsworth, William A. Wood of Boston and William F. Wood of Rockland. Mrs. Darsie, who is the father of Mrs. W. S. Rounds of this city, gave an interesting talk upon his business and professional career, which began with his school days in Hiram, Ohio, his first teacher being a young man named Garfield, who afterward became President of the United States. Garfield gave the boy the job of schoolhouse janitor, a job he had once held himself, and taught him how to work and to be self-dependent, lessons he never forgot. In Rotary he found a great departure from the heartlessness of old business methods and the finest men he had ever done business with, he said, were Connecticut Yankees. Honesty, candor and straightforwardness in business, he declared are the winning cards.

SAVE THE KIDS WITH THE CHURCHES

Teach Them To Cut Out "Dares" In Connection With the Motor Car.

If every parent, declares the A. L. A., could be made to realize that while the public streets are for the use of all, and children have as many rights and as great as automobilists and drivers of other vehicles, still those rights should and must be used intelligently and with proper regard for the dangers of which modern automobile traffic is held responsible. It is the height of folly for a parent to exclaim: "My children have as good a right in the streets as anybody," and then allow the children to play there without warning, and with their immature minds wrongly filled up with such a statement. It creates an attitude of defiance in the child, toward drivers of cars, and leads to the habit of "daring" all drivers of passing vehicles, and sometimes with fatal results.

Many parents consider their children as "smart," that is, able to look out for themselves. Smart in childish repartee—of a more or less "sassy" nature and tinged with "sass" toward outsiders who come in contact with them in a correctional way. This is generally the class of boys who begin by "daring" motorists, and then progress to "daring" street cars and trucks and street railway cars.

It is among boys of this class that many fatal accidents happen, while if they escape death or serious injuries, they grow up to be an even worse type of offender against law and order. How to cope with such vicious and lawless boys is a problem that might be less serious if the home influences were different. If some parents would not uphold their children in such active disrespect of the orderly and ordinary things in life, many of our child highway accidents would cease; and especially if all parents would try to understand that some of the real causes of accidents are created and allowed to develop in the home.

ARMY VACANCIES
Local Office Announces Open Places In The First and Eighth Areas.

The local Army Recruiting Officer announces that the following list of vacancies are available for enlistments for the First Corps Area and Eighth Corps Area: In the first Corps Area: 5th Infantry, Portland Harbor, Maine, Coast Artillery, Fort Preble, Me., Fort Banks, Mass., Fort Adams, R. I., and Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y., 13th Infantry, Boston Harbor, and Camp Devens, Mass., Medical Department, Portland Harbor, Me., Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., Camp Devens, Mass., and Boston Harbor, Mass., Ordnance Dept., Fort Preble, Me., Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y., and Watertown Arsenal, Watertown, Mass., Quartermaster Corps, Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y. Various Bands throughout the First Corps Area offer exceptional opportunities to qualified musicians and men will find an enlistment spent with any Army Band to be invaluable in experience and in perfecting the musical ability. Infantry, Field Artillery, Medical Dept. and Engineers are open to enlistments in the Eighth Corps Area (Texas), and those men who are favorable towards active service will find the desire fully realized with service in the Eighth Corps Area which comprises the territory along the Mexican border. Service along the border consists of continued activity and exploration of the vast wild country which only this part of Continental U. S. can boast. All branches of the service are represented in this Corps Area and these organizations are kept at full authorized strength at all times and hardly a day passes where some new experience is not found and time is never lagging. While plenty of activity is experienced men on duty always have the opportunity to make visits to points of interest. Any question which may arise with regard to enlistment in the Army will be readily answered at the local recruiting station located at Post Office, Rockland, Room 2.

MY EUROPEAN EXCURSIONS

By Edwin Robert Peire

THE ISLAND HAUNT OF ARTISTS

There is only one island in the Mediterranean that deserves this name and that is the microcosm of beauty and romance off the extreme end of the Sorrentine Peninsula—the Isle of Capri. So much has been written about it in every European language that words fail. Like its wine, everything about it is "heady," stirring the senses and anesthetizing the reasoning faculties. The island is a real rock dropped from Paradise. Almost the whole island is rugged rock, ungrazed by sea caverns like the famous blue grotto, and about its streets loveliness of beauty, artists and writers since the days of the Emperor Tiberius, have strolled viewing the grim majesty of Vesuvius in the distance and the sapphire of the sea lapping the shores below.

A copy of the Declaration of Independence and of the Federal and State Constitutions will be presented to every grammar school graduate by the State of New Jersey. Provision for this was made at the last session of the State legislature. Dental clinics in schools, and pensions for school medical inspectors, as well as for janitors injured in service, were also provided. A law was passed prohibiting discrimination on account of sex in the employment of public school teachers.

While necks are not universally "high" as sleeves are long, still the high neck is a pronounced feature of the fall mode.

An Ultra Chic Negligee of Lace and Velvet

Heavy silver lace in the fashionable new polka dot effect forms the bodice and the upper half of the wide, trailing sleeves, with maroon chiffon velvet forming the rest of the combination. Note the effective way in which the lace is applied to the sleeves, and the lace border at the bottom of the sleeves suggestive of a formal court train.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Things to Eat

DELICIOUS stews may be made of small pieces of meat if the family is small. Take one pound of lean round steak, cut into small pieces and add with cold water to cover a small onion or two, cook for two or three hours at a simmering temperature; the last hour add a few potatoes sliced thin and cook until they are soft. There should be some suet added with the meat to give richness to the stew. Season with salt and pepper, adding water if needed, and serve very hot.

Lamb Stew.—Cut three pounds of the neck of lamb into convenient-sized pieces for serving, brown in three tablespoons of drippings, add two onions cut into dice, one carrot diced, one sprig of parsley, one small piece of bay leaf, two cloves, eight peppercorns and salt to taste. Pour over one cupful of boiling water, one cupful of tomatoes; add six diced potatoes and two cupfuls of peas. Simmer on the back part of the stove for three hours or cook five minutes in a pressure cooker for five hours.

Pork Chops and Parsnip Stew.—Put six or eight pork chops into a kettle, add five good-sized parsnips which have been washed and scraped and cut into one-inch pieces, add five diced potatoes, one chopped onion, salt and pepper to season. Cook slowly for twenty minutes, thicken with flour blended with cold water, cover closely and simmer for three hours on the back of the stove.

Hungarian Stew.—Take two pounds of lean shoulder steak, cut into small pieces and marinate with two tablespoons of strong vinegar, two tablespoons of oil, one fourth teaspoonful of caraway seed, the same of sweet marjoram, leaving it two hours. Add the meat and seasonings, two tablespoons of butter, cook until brown, add one tablespoonful of flour, simmer for four hours. Add one-half cupful of cream, a dash of paprika and serve.

THE FALL STYLES

Skirts Will Be Shorter (If Possible) and Necks Will Be Higher.

More legs and less neck will be on view next fall if the conception of autumn modes for women prevail as displayed in the showing of the National Garment Retailers' Association. Skirts 15 or 16 inches off the floor were not unusual at a showing last night, while collars were invariably high. For tailored dresses there were vests that buttoned high at the neck. Sleeves on dresses were either long and tight or long and flowing, but always long.

The waist line was suggested more definitely than in recent seasons.

That waist line is higher is indicated in several ways. One is the starting of the flare higher up. Another is the belting or sashing of a dress at a line well upon the hip.

Skirts are short—shorter even. Just covering the knee is an accepted length.

Sleeves are long; there is a sharp distinction between the wider, fancier sleeve of Paris origin, and the tight, plain sleeve of domestic inspiration. This difference is specially noticeable in coats.

The bolero keeps up conservatively in the mode. It has a position in back, or when placed in front may reveal a vest of contrasting fabric.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and my health. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much."

—Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations had been advised.

Fewer children from the farm reach high school, proportionately, than town or city children. This is especially true of the purely agricultural States. More country girls reach high school than country boys.

A study of High School Education of the Farm Population in Selected States, Bulletin 1925, No. 6, issued by the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education, mentions as the principal cause for this condition the general sentiment against outdoor work by girls and the higher money value of a boy's work on the farm. Factors that must also be considered are farm ownership or tenancy of parents, and the isolation of the farm, in which the children come.

The study shows that, as a natural consequence, where educational standards in a rural community are high, attendance of both boys and girls in high schools is increased.

SOUTH THOMASTON

William McDougall, a former South Thomaston High School principal, called upon friends here Saturday. Mr. McDougall is now Superintendent of Schools in Bridgewater, Conn. Many very fine men have come to us in that capacity in the past and nearly everyone has made his mark in the world. It is a matter of pride that Gen. Herbert M. Lord taught this High School in 1881-82. There's always a warm welcome awaiting all of these people whenever they can find time to visit us.

J. A. Lester and family from Portland motor down for every weekend at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lull, Joshua Thorndyke and Mrs. Lizzie Piersons of Crescent Beach were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Thorndyke Saturday night.

Miss Ava Bowers from Point Shirley, Winthrop, Mass., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Z. Simmons.

Mrs. Mabel Fitch of Whitinsville, Mass., called on friends here Saturday. Many will regret to learn that her father, Herbert Brown, has such ill health that he has been unable to work for a year.

The Ladies' Aid and a few friends were recently entertained at a picnic by Mrs. Herman Winchester at her cottage on Spruce Head. The faithful few who make up this society are working overtime now preparing for their annual mid-summer sale. Both workers and materials will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Stone of East Boston has been the guest of Mrs. W. P. Sleeper during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Graves and family were calling upon friends in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sleeper went to Brunswick Wednesday on business. The outing club from Rockland was entertained at Weesaweduck Inn Tuesday. Mrs. C. L. Sleeper, Mrs. Lilla G. Coombs and Mrs. Zebadiah Simmons of this place are members of this club.

E. A. Rowell and Miss Mabel Rowell attended the Wotton family in Rockland Thursday.

CLARK ISLAND

John Meehan of John Meehan & Sons and friends of Philadelphia were in town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richards who were married in Stonington July 4 arrived in town Tuesday evening and expect to make an extended stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baum of Reading, Pa., are visiting their uncle, Charles Baum.

Charles Rowland has returned from a visit to Fall River and Methuen, Mass.

Lawrence Dickey is visiting his grandfather, Charles Johnson.

The road from Wiley's Corner is under construction and will be a wide, substantial highway when completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rowland have recently entertained the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lord, son and daughter, Miss Mae Lord of Fall River, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hale and two children of Waterbury, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Lena of Andover, Mass., Mrs. Bella Wade and children of Methuen, Mass., Mrs. Elizabeth Smerdon and children of Lawrence, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Sutter of St. George.

George Rowland and Miss Mae Lord attended the dance at Tenants' Harbor.

Rodney Fullerton of Somerville, was in town Tuesday.

Estate of Edwin D. Wiley
STATE OF MAINE
 To the Honorable, the Judge of the Probate Court, in and for the County of Knox: Respectfully represents Arthur E. Kellar of Portland, County of Cumberland and State of Maine Executor of the will of Edwin D. Wiley, late of said County of Knox, deceased, testate, that said Edwin D. Wiley at the time of his decease was the owner of certain real estate situated in said St. George, at Wheeler's Bay, so-called, bounded and described as follows: The homestead of said Edwin D. Wiley as owned and occupied by him at the time of his death, together with all rights and privileges thereunto belonging and particularly including the house and buildings and lot where he lived, and his wood lot on the Seal Harbor road.

That the debts of the deceased as nearly as can be ascertained, amount to $175.30
 Legacies (in money) 25.00
 And the expenses of sale and administration to 114.60
 Amounting in all to 314.90
 That the value of the Personal Estate of the deceased, as represented by the said Arthur E. Kellar, is 298.60
 That the Personal Estate is therefore insufficient to pay the debts of the deceased, legacies and expenses of sale and administration, and it is necessary for that purpose to sell some part of the Real Estate to raise the sum of $28.70
 That the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion thereof; Wherefore your petitioner prays that he may be licensed to sell and convey the whole of said Real Estate at private sale for the payment of said debts, legacies and expenses of sale and administration.

 ARTHUR E. KELLAR.

TENANT'S HARBOR DAYS

Of the Recompense That Comes To the School Teacher.

"Recompense: An equivalent for anything given, done, etc." Let me write a word about the recompense of school teachers.

The end has come, as come it must. To all things there is an end. The teacher and the scholars trust. Their parting feet to separate ways.

So wrote the poet Whittier in 1877. In March, 1885, I turned the key in the lock of the door to the schoolhouse on the Georges River Road in South Thomaston. My school days were over, both as pupil and teacher; I went to the town treasurer's office and collected my wages—one and one-half months at $16.66 per month. With this princely sum, I gathered on my shoes the mud of my native village and on April 1 left my home, never to return to it to live.

Was the money I received for teaching that term of school my only recompense? Surely not.

They part; but in the years to be shall pleasant memories cling to each. As shells bear inland from the sea, The murmur of the rhythmic beach.

For forty years I have been getting a recompense from that school term and the end is not yet. I quote from a letter received a few days ago:

"I read in The Courier-Gazette one of Boze's letters in which he wrote of his teaching school in the little Georges River schoolhouse in the winter of 1885; he wondered if any of his pupils of that school remembered him, or where any of them were. I am one of those pupils, a little girl of some ten years, and have not forgotten my kindly teacher who was ever ready to assist me over the (to me) difficult places in my lessons and I always read with much interest the letters signed Boze, as I know they are written by my old teacher."

Oh, yes, there is a recompense for school teachers beyond the wages they receive. Just imagine, what a recompense President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard University has had for his forty years at the head of that famous institution.

And, when the world shall link your names With gracious lives and manners fine, The teacher shall assert his claims, And proudly whisper "These were mine."

I shall have recompense for my teaching all the days of my life, and perhaps even in that land of the Great Beyond.

Boze,
July 15, 1925.

Lubricate your Dollars!

There are some motorists who attempt to save money by buying cheap oil. They little realize the false economy of such a practice.

Inferior and "doctored" oil may cost you from $50 to $150 a year extra. It costs real money to replace burned-out bearings. It is expensive business re-boring cylinders.

The consistent use of Socony Motor Oil is an investment in motor insurance against future repair bills.

The average consumption of motor oil per car is not over twenty gallons per year. Even if it costs an additional five cents a quart to get the genuine Socony Motor Oil, it would mean only $4 extra a year—and think of the money saved.

Mrs. Moran and children and Ralston Ross of Massachusetts are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Ralston.

Beautiful Northern Lights Tuesday night. Did you see them?

Miss Mabel Oxton, her niece, Edna Gregory and Ruth Leath of Rockland are spending a week here at Mabel's home.

Blueberries are ripening fast and large flocks of gulls are circling overhead locating the best blueberry field for prospective rations.

H. W. Hake of Torrington, Conn., was a caller at Mrs. Kirkpatrick's Monday. The late Mrs. Hake was an esteemed friend of Mrs. Kirkpatrick and an appreciative customer of her pictures.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick thinks she has a Seven Sister rose bush that rivals in beauty that of Mr. Griffin of Rockland. Besides this bush she has six other varieties, all so heavily laden with rose blossoms that it would be quite impossible to count them.

More than 200 blossoms have been cut and still there are more and more, such a profusion that one can't tell where they have been cut.

The community has been saddened by the death of Orison Tolman which occurred July 10.

Tolman was born in this village 51 years ago, the son of Alvah and Fannie (Upham) Tolman. He attended the public school here where he displayed much aptitude for acquiring knowledge, always at the head of his class in lessons and deportment, the pride of teacher and his parents. As he grew to manhood these characteristics remained his, added to by business ability, diligence, thrift and integrity, which won the confidence of his employers and the liking and respect of all who knew him. He is survived by his wife and one brother. Funeral services were held at the church here, conducted by Rev. B. P. Browne of the First Baptist church, Rockland. The flowers were profuse and beautiful. Interment was in the Rockville cemetery.

NORTH APPLETON

Miss Grace Sidelinger of Rockland, a member of the graduating class of Bay Path Institute, School of Business Training, Springfield, Mass., has received an appointment to teach in the commercial department of the High School at Oakland. Ira W. Feeney has been in New York this week on a business trip.

The higher square crowned hat will find a prominent place among fall millinery, says the Dry Goods Economist. One large millinery firm has imported many new hats that exploit this tendency toward greater height. It must be understood, however, that this new crown is not abruptly squared in the manner launched last year. Rather, the crowns of these latest imports are square generally giving the effect of a rounded square crown. This new crown is more becoming than the squared crown of last season. Many houses are considering the possibilities of the velvet hat, in pastel shades for summer sports wear, and in black, beige, taupe and purple for early fall selling. Double-faced bengaline and satin Roi ribbon, particularly in beige and black is favored extensively for immediate-wear hats.

Opportunity Class of the First Baptist church with their families held a picnic at Oakland Park Wednesday. Eighty nine sat down to a bountiful supper of baked beans, salads, and many other good things, which included a birthday cake and a mammoth watermelon. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. B. R. Browne and son Paul of Bangor. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Alice Kaler, Mrs. Nellie Maguire, Mrs. Hattie Richards, Mrs. Clara Gregory, Mrs. Lillian Joyce, Mrs. Hattie Bickmore, Mrs. Margaret Haining, Mrs. Lina Carroll and Mrs. Susie Pendleton.

Miss Ethel Payson, president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club and Mrs. Susan Foss have returned from Portland where they attended the national convention, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph B. Spowers of Monticello, N. J. They attended the mammoth clam bake at Greenwood Garden, Peak's Island. Speaking of this event the Portland Evening Express said: "Surprise and bewilderment was written large on the faces of some of the visitors from the Midwest and Western States as they filed up to receive the wooden trays which bore a steaming mass of clams, a huge lobster, sweet potato, egg, hard tack, bouillon, coffee and other delicacies peculiar to such a function. 'How the dickens do you eat these things?' was the question heard on every side, and a big delegation of Maine girls was kept constantly at work demonstrating to the women of Kansas and Arkansas, of Minnesota and Missouri how real New Englanders attack the problem of eating sea food."

The Methuen Club is invited to meet with Mrs. Helen Perry at her cottage at Megunticook Lake Friday, July 24. Members without cars should be at waiting room at 10.30, a. m.

L. Henry Lovejoy, a prominent former resident of Rockport, who for the past six years has made his home with his daughter in Wilkes-Barre, Penn., is spending a few days in this city and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Folsom accompanied by their daughters Janet and Carolyn and Mr. Folsom's mother, Mrs. Edith A. Folsom motored here from their home in Cambridge, Mass., last Saturday for a short visit with relatives. Mr. Folsom and family returned to Massachusetts Monday. Mrs. Edith A. Folsom left by boat last night after a visit with her niece Mrs. H. F. Hicks, Middle street.

Mrs. Lewis D. Albee and son George of Jacksonville, Fla., have been guests of Mrs. Albee's father, G. O. B. Crockett, the past few days. They leave today for a visit at their old home at Bernard.

Mr. and Mrs. Andros Mitchell of Lynn, Mass., are in town on business. Mrs. Frances Pierce of Bangor and Mrs. Matilda Pierce, formerly of Cottage street, are occupying the Fitch apartments, Warren street.

Miss Ethel Thibbodo of Dorchester, Mass., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Moulaison, for two weeks.

Henry Moore of Newton Centre, Mass., has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Blackington, Masonic street.

Miss Clencie Blackington has returned from six weeks' trip to New York, New Haven and Boston. Miss Helen Swan of New Haven will be her guest the remainder of July.

Miss Lucy C. Farnsworth has been spending the week in Boston.

Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Rounds have as guests with them at Treasure Point Farm, Mrs. Rounds' father, Rev. J. L. Darle of Pittsburgh, and Miss Bracia R. Rounds, formerly of the Rockland Public Library staff, now a teacher in the public schools of Madison, Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. Griffin are in Boston, where tomorrow they will attend the wedding of Mrs. Griffin's sister, Miss Myrtle Pettie and Irving McBride.

Mrs. Harris Woodman of Winthrop, motored to this city yesterday in order to attend the O'Hara-Rugg recital. She will probably return home today.

Mrs. E. F. Glover and Mrs. H. D. Ames entertained at a delightful luncheon and auction at Crescent Beach Inn yesterday. There were 65 guests with prizes, Schrafft's chocolates, at each table. The decorations in cut flowers were very pretty. Those in charge were Mrs. Damon and Mrs. Hattie provided the guests with a dainty and very satisfactory luncheon.

Mrs. Glenn A. Lawrence and daughters Ruth and Mary are visiting in Ellsworth.

Benjamin F. Smith and Mrs. J. M. Baldrige of Warrenton Park entertained at luncheon Thursday the guests being Gen. and Mrs. H. M. Lord, Mrs. Kenneth P. Lord, J. C. Perry, John J. Perry and Dudley Wolfe Smith.

E. M. Lawrence and G. A. Lawrence are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hickson, Miss Dorothy Hickson and Joseph R. Hickson of Miami, Fla. The visitors from the Southland are delighted with Maine and will prolong their stay with the exception of Joseph R. Hickson, who returns home Monday.

Mrs. Emily Hitchcock has returned from a motor trip which extended as far as St. John, N. B.

Mayor and Mrs. C. F. Snow invited the American Legion Auxiliary to visit them at Treasure Point Farm Wednesday afternoon and the 12 members who were able to accept enjoyed one of the best times the society has ever had, and found that the name was well chosen. They found not only a treasure in the beautiful view of the St. Georges River, but in the groves and shore privileges an ideal spot to spend a vacation, of which Rev. and Mrs. Rounds and family are now availing themselves in a cozy cottage among the pines, which the guests had the pleasure of visiting. They received a hearty welcome and were escorted on a thorough inspection and found it ideal. Many more cottages could be put up with fine results for all concerned. Mrs. Snow then took the members on a tour of the farm, which was enjoyed immensely, returning to the farm house. A picnic time was spent with outdoor exercises the most enjoyable being the three robust ladies rolling down the three hills. Ask the crowd. Then a picnic supper was served, fish chowder, pickles, crackers, sandwiches, all kinds of cake, fruit and coffee. Then Mrs. Snow escorted the guests to the top of the hill where the view was wonderful and the sunset was a wonderful picture to behold, the cove on one side, and the St. Georges River on the other, and the hayfield with stacks dotting it, and the old-fashioned garden in front of the yellow house with green blinds made a picture long to be remembered. Mr. and Mrs. Snow never go half ways. They conveyed the guests both ways, landing each one at home at 9 p. m. All join in thanking them for their kindness.

Mae Murray Advocates "Exercise Dance" to Keep Figure Slim

Mae Murray, whose twinkling toes give a new version of the famous Merry Widow Waltz in "The Merry Widow," her next screen vehicle.

Mae Murray, whose lithe, graceful and slender form is the envy and admiration of her plumper sisters, has a method all her own of keeping slim. Where other pet reducing methods may make you do things you don't want to do, or do without those things you really do want, such as abstaining from just the foods you'd like to eat, or getting up early in the morning to do your daily dozen when you'd rather stay in bed, Miss Murray's reducing method adds joy to living rather than subtracting from it. In other words, Miss Murray's pet reducing, and beauty secret can be concisely stated in one word: "Dance!"

Dance to Avoid Dieting

"Dance a lot and you won't have to worry about diet or exercise to keep slender," says Mae. "Besides, look at all the fun you have," she mischievously adds. And then she clinches her argument logically by adding: "What is dancing if not the sugar-coated pill of exercise swallowed appetizingly to the tune of pleasant music? Dance by all means, every chance you get! If you don't get enough regular dancing to keep slender, and you don't like the uncompromising, stereotyped exercise you feel you must do to keep slim, adopt this idea originated by one of my friends. Combine your 'daily dozen' with the terpsichorean art by creating an original exercises dance embodying ordinary exercises practiced to the strains of a snappy dance record! In other words, choose those certain exercises you need to make your figure more perfect, incorporate them to music, and then do them rhythmically in dance form once or twice a day as regularly as you would take your daily dozen! You will be surprised how much fun you can get out of this novel 'exercise dance,' how much slenderness and more graceful you will become, how much more alive and alert you will feel and how much more your eyes will sparkle with the joy of living.

"Dancing keeps one active and exercising rhythmically. And since nothing brings about plumpness of the figure more quickly than laziness and inactivity, dancing supplies sufficient exercise to keep the figure slim and graceful, that is, if, "Dancing, when you come right down to it, really is keeping active and exercising rhythmically. And since nothing brings about plumpness of the figure more quickly than laziness and inactivity, dancing supplies sufficient exercise to keep the figure slim and graceful, that is, if,

MRS. WILLIS A. GOODE

It is with great sorrow and regret relatives and friends in Rockland and Thomaston learn of the death of Mrs. Willis A. Goode in West Newton, Mass., Monday. The deceased was the daughter of Clara Erskine O'Neill, formerly of Rockland, and the late John O'Neill 2d of Thomaston. She possessed a remarkably bright and cheerful personality, gifted with a beautiful voice and a rare business talent. She was a most estimable character. Her youthful appearance gave added stress as to the passing of one who seemingly had not completed her life's work. She is survived by three brothers, William E. O'Neill of Los Angeles, Calif., Ralph O'Neill of Laurel, Md., and James O'Neill 2d of West Newton, Mass., and in this section by three cousins, Clara E. Meserve of Springfield, Mass., Charles P. Libby of Rockland, and Laura E. Meserve of Thomaston.

Mrs. A. W. Eoss entertained at luncheon at the Country Club yesterday in honor of Mrs. William Wood of Boston who is visiting Mrs. George B. Wood.

Mrs. Frank Berry, who has been the guest of Miss Kitty S. Coburn, has returned to Portland.

Miss Dorothy Thwing of Ridgewood, N. J., and Misses Alma and Edna Knudsen of Boston are guests at Treasure Point Farm. They are on a camping tour through New England and from Treasure Point will go to Bar Harbor, thence through the White Mountains.

The Shenandoah and the Los Angeles are Uncle Sam's two biggest gas bags, but they will never get into politics—Philadelphia Record.

IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

KATHLEEN M. SNOW, LIBRARIAN

Week days: 9 a. m. to 8.30 p. m.

"We cannot abandon our education at the schoolhouse door. We have to keep it up through life," Calvin Coolidge.

Luckily for most of us, the better part of a man's education is that which he gives himself. The book that we come into unawares and from which we derive great pleasure is seldom forgotten. Half the pleasure of a library comes from browsing about and from chancing upon some book that just meets our mental needs of the time.

Unfortunately, however, those really fine books are few and far between. To find one good one you must have a hundred try, and few of us have time for trying the extra money-line. As much as one dislikes losing the charm of browsing, it is necessary to resort to some guidance in the choice of our reading. Sometimes it seems that there are more guides for reading than there are books.

One of the most helpful books of this sort that has ever been published is May Becker's "Readers' Guide Book." The library owns a copy. To be sure, it is so valuable that it is on the librarian's own bookshelf and consulted many times during the day. Mrs. Becker has long had charge of a question box column in the Literary Review of the New York Post, now the Saturday Review of Literature, and this book is a compilation of those hundreds of questions asked her each year. Which are the best books on "going to Italy," fiction about the Civil War, the Einstein Theory, and hundreds more subjects which every librarian tries to answer daily.

Of rather different type but of unlimited value is the series of booklets now being published by the American Library Association. Of these, two have already been received by this library, (1) "A Reading Course in Biology," (2) "A Reading Course in English Literature." Each course has a carefully written text, briefly discussing the subject in general and recommending a few books carefully chosen to give the reader the fairest conception possible of the subject. These courses are planned by specialists and most of the books recommended are available in this library.

Since writing of Anthony Trollope in this column last week it has been noticed that several of his books are now being issued in a new edition, a sure sign that the renewed interest in Trollope is not limited to Rockland readers.

Miss Helen MacWhinnie has joined the library staff for the remainder of the summer. Miss MacWhinnie has studied Library Science at Boston University, at which she has just completed her third year.

MacMillan Book News announces that Vachel Lindsay appeared in his guise as a married man on the same day that his "Collected Poems" appeared in their new edition, illustrated by the poet himself. Mr. Lindsay and his wife start on a tour going wherever there is a request for him to come. Hands up! Who'd like to have him visit Rockland?

Mr. Scopes, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Darrow are certainly succeeding in bringing Tennessee and evolution before the people. Whether the state or the subject is being talked about the more is a point to be debated. Nevertheless Darwin comes in for more than his share of publicity and no matter how little his theory bothers one there's scarcely a statement being made in this controversy but steps hard on somebody's toes.

Other books well worth reading at this time are Drummond's "Ascent of Man," Bergeson's "Creative Evolution," Fiske's "Darwinism and other Essays," Haeckel's "Evolution of Man," Huxley's "Evolution and Ethics" and "Man's Place in Nature."

24 Hours Every Day-

A good foundation for dividends

Stores close on Sundays, and so do banks,
The grocer says, "We have some ordered,"
The merchant can shut up shop and move away,
The manufacturer may retire,
Industries close down for slack periods,

But the power company, serving all the people all the time with all the electric energy they can use NEVER closes down, NEVER moves away.

And because it is serving all the people all the time with a product they are never willing to do without—lights and power—its earnings come steadily in.

Steady and adequate earnings mean steady dividends.

When you buy the 7% Preferred Stock of Central Maine Power Company you know you are making an investment that has paid dividends with 100% regularity for more than 19 years. Its 75th consecutive dividend was mailed out July 1 to 12,676 partner owners.

We believe it always will pay dividends.

If you want the solid comfort that comes from a solid investment, place some of your earnings in the 7% Preferred Stock of Central Maine Power Company.

IN THE REALM OF MUSIC

What Our Home Artists and Others are Doing To Promote the Interests of This Engaging Art.

The midsummer organ recitals in Portland by Municipal Organist Charles R. Cronham, are in progress once more. There are many of us who wish we might be able to attend them and hear the interesting programs Mr. Cronham is presenting. Glancing over the reviews I note among his numbers the following: Concert Prelude in D minor.....Kramer Spanish March.....Stewart Le Petit Berger.....Debussy Reverie.....Strauss March of the Tin Soldiers.....Pierce By the Pond of France.....Stoughton To Spring.....Grieg Folk Song.....Mendelssohn Salut Cecilia Offertory.....Baptiste

Well, Mme. Olive Fremstad secured her divorce. It was recently granted her in the Superior Court of Cumberland County, "from Harry Lewis Brainard of parts unknown, on the grounds of desertion." They had been married but a short time when one day Mr. Brainard announced that he was going to California for a little rest. Apparently his rest was the Ep Van Winkle type, for Mme. Fremstad has not seen him since that memorable date.

Another youthful Maine singer is attracting attention, Miss Violet Sharon of Auburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sharon. She was graduated from the Edward Little High School this June. Miss Sharon came to public attention at 16 years of age, when she went to Bangor to appear at a music festival by school children before the Maine teachers' convention. Her voice was then noticed and pronounced unusually promising. At that time she was studying piano with marked success. Through the efforts of Prof. Testa she got opportunity to play accompaniments for Vanni, ex-Metropolitan tenor, now located in Auburn. Vanni became interested and started her on vocal lessons. Last winter she studied with Prof. A. Auger and Mrs. F. P. Clark, both of Auburn. She is in great demand and has made many appearances in local affairs. Recently she was put to a remarkable test, when under the direction of Prof. Testa she sang in the Lewiston auditorium, which seats 4,000. Miss Sharon's voice filled the building with ease and adequacy. Her voice is a mezzo-soprano, dramatic quality and even at this early date seems well adapted to the concert stage. Mr. and Mrs. Sharon are greatly interested in helping forward their daughter's career. Present plans are that she will attend the Ithaca (N. Y.) Conservatory of Music.

Among Rockland's ambitious girls who are attending summer school I note the name of Miss Esther Stevenson, who is taking the final year of her course in public school music teaching at LaSalle Summer School Roslindale, Mass. Miss Stevenson is taking her profession very seriously and judging from the reports is meeting with success. Her reputation as teacher of music in the public schools at Norway, where she taught for the past year, was unanimous and at an increase in salary, but I have not learned whether she has accepted.

Another Maine poet is attracting attention in Frances Wright Turner of Ellsworth. Mrs. Turner is the wife of C. O. Turner, the Ellsworth school superintendent, formerly of Thomaston and Camden. She is a member of the Maine Writers Research Club, a woman of charming personality. Many of her poems were contributed to The Courier-Gazette when the Turners were in County residents. Mrs. Turner writes of the simple and beautiful things of life that appeal to the heart. She is very versatile, her child verses being as delightful as those for the grown-ups. Her first collection of poems will soon be from the press, under the name of "Drifting Leaves," and is being eagerly awaited by many friends and admirers. These two poems of hers are veritable songs in their musical cadence and the exquisite things they bring before our eyes:

GOD
Just a singing bird,
Just a little laughing brook
Or a happy word.

SPRING
It seems to me that Spring
Is just God's prayer,
That we may know
He liveth ever close
He planteth His flowers
By the blooming edge
Of our world.

And He lends His silver willows
Over the soft green meadow
Of laughing brooks,
And here and there
He drops a violet,
The token of His love,
At our unworthy feet.

In these days of eat and grow thin, William H. Leahy's interview with Mme. Tetrazzini is amusing. It appears in the New York World. "I don't believe in getting thin—"

I stay fat because I have sense," quoth the Madame. "You see them on every side trying to get thin, starving themselves, wearing themselves out with crazy exercises, ruining their bodies with bandages, taking medicine that destroys their stomachs. But I am glad that I am fat. I may be fat, but I have very few wrinkles in my face. Perhaps I would look better on the stage if I were thin. It's true that I should look more realistically the part of the consumptive 'Violetta,' if I were consumptive. And the part of the young 'Rosina' if I were seventeen again. But there is a contradiction in opera—it demands often that the singer be slender and sing well, yet women who can sing well are nearly always fat. Rather than be one of those decorative sopranos with bad voices, I have always preferred to be a fat soprano who has the voice. The throat needs protection. The cords of the throat are delicate, and singers are always getting colds. They have to take extravagant care so that their necks and chests do not get chilled. They muffle themselves in wraps and scarfs. I don't have to—my neck, my chest, my back, are well covered, a natural blanket which protects the delicate organs of singing and breathing from the cold." She adds that the double chin lubricates the singing organs, having an oil that seeps into the vocal cords and keeps them soft and pliant.

Mephisto adds this comment: "Madame suggests that you dispense with a false collar and scarf, and wear instead a few layers of blubber neatly distributed over the shoulders and round the neck. There is only one objection to Madame's theory—it doesn't work out. Madame sang well when she was slender; her last tour here was not precisely a triumph. Madame's vocal mechanism, but I am still unconvinced. I cannot believe that circumference makes for voice. That fat ladies who adorn steel platforms at the circus rarely trill like nightingales. They invariably squeak like mice, and are thankful to peep out that much tone. The neck oil up below of Madame does not seem to help, even in such comical quantities. No, Madame, you are quite wrong. The voice of a sperm whale you might say amounts to practically nothing!"

I am wondering when Madame Tetrazzini was slender. The first grand opera I ever saw was many years ago and Mme. Tetrazzini was in it. The opera was "Lucia" and the Madame had the title role with McCormack playing opposite. I was thrilled—why shouldn't I have been, my first opera, McCormack a dream and I just the age when the combination of the pure Irish type and a luscious languishing spun-silver or voice would raise havoc. I recall distinctly how funny Tetrazzini looked. She was certainly fat then, as round and plump as a pouter pig, short, tightly laced, and not even in which Lucia goes to a chair and sits down. When the Madame set down it was on the extreme edge and she poised to fly any minute. She looked just like a rubber ball placed on the chair.

INHERITANCE TAXES

State's Large Receipts Were Greatly Swelled By the Smith Estates.

A total of $1,372,655 was collected in inheritance taxes by the state during the fiscal year from July 1, 1924 to June 30, 1925, as compared with a total of $557,453 for the previous fiscal year period, according to Philip D. Stubbs, assistant attorney general, who is in charge of the work of collecting inheritance taxes in the state.

The increase in the total collection of inheritance taxes for the past fiscal year over that of the previous 12 months' period, was due in no small measure to the inheritance taxes paid by the Francis B. Smith estate and the George Warren Smith estate of Rockland, which were largely the means of swelling the total collection for the month of September, 1924 to $751,229—a larger total for one month than was collected during the previous fiscal year period.

The amount collected in inheritance taxes during the fiscal year from July 1, 1923, to June 30, 1924, $557,453, represented an average year.

AN IDYL OF THE SEA

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Edling along the shore on a beautiful summer day, with my pipe and thoughts my sole companions, I come to rest in the shade of a great boulder and give myself over to the lazy luxury of lounging in its lee and listen languidly to the "water lapping on the crag."

As my glance roves out over the vast expanse of blue, it comes to rest upon an infinitesimal speck on the distant horizon. Thereupon I become lost in idle conjecture as to what it may possibly be—a fisherman or a lobsterman, perhaps, engaged in wrestling his modest livelihood from the mighty deep; perhaps a party of excursionists out for a pleasure sail; maybe a lobster-boat on its rounds to the lobstering centers; or it might be a floating derelict and a danger to navigation. Possibly it is a tramp steamer with a valuable cargo from the Orient; a miniature yacht; a coaster; a battered old coasting schooner; a tanker; a trawler from the banks; a seiner; a man-o-war; a liner; one of the last remaining square-riggers; or—is it—? Yes, 't'is it! A rum-runner! Cael.

AMERICAN LEGION

The American Legion's national campaign for a $5,000,000 endowment fund for care of disabled veterans and orphans received a big push forward in the New England States when Gov. Fuller announced to President Coolidge, honorary chairman of the movement, that Massachusetts had raised $225,000 towards its $500,000 quota. Elsewhere in New England the campaign moved into its intensive periods. Throughout the nation the campaign here met with heartening support. Oakland, California, raised more than $35,000 and is still going strong. The most novel plan of raising a quota comes from Hicksville, N. Y. The Hicksville post, anxious to turn in its full share made a house-to-house canvass asking people for their old papers. Tons upon tons of old papers deluged the post's clubhouse. These were finally sold for a tidy sum that contributed a big portion of the required quota.

Nebraska and New Mexico have been added to the list of states which have completed their quotas for The American Legion $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World War. This brings the total number of States "over the top" for the fund to 13.

A determined effort is being made to establish professional baseball in London this summer. Previously it has been an amateur affair under the auspices of the American Legion. An "Anglo-American Baseball Association" has been formed.

"Mother" Ernestine Schumann-Heink, internationally famous opera singer, has raised her voice in behalf of the American Legion's $5,000,000 Endowment Fund for the disabled veterans and orphans of the World War. Four of her sons served with the American Army in the World War. Another went down with his U-boat in a German uniform. While on tour in Philadelphia the great World War Mother made a contribution of $50 to the fund.

Nobody in the little town of Jerome, Ariz., with 4,000 inhabitants left it to "George" when the American Legion's drive for a $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of veterans was staged recently. Everybody contributed, and as a result the town raised almost six times its quota. A total of 3,019 personal subscriptions were made by the inhabitants in raising a total sum of $3,522.60, averaging a little more than a dollar each. Jerome thinks this establishes a record.

Encouragement and reward to the girlhood of the nation who strive for the qualities of Scholarship, Honor, Service, Courage, Leadership and Americanism is being offered by the American Legion Auxiliary through the National School Medal Award for schoolgirls. The plan recently adopted as a part of the national Americanism program is to award a medal to one girl, who leads in the above qualities, in every eighth grade in every community throughout the nation.

Co-operating with the State Department of Health, the American Legion is sponsoring a campaign to establish free clinics in the schools of the state. The clinics will be available not only to school children, but also for children of pre-school age. "The object of the campaign is to keep the school children healthy and to immunize the child of pre-school age as far as possible and to prepare him physically so that he may be in good health when he attends school," said a leader in the movement.

Formation of Navy-Marine Posts of the American Legion throughout the country is being encouraged. The purpose of the Navy-Marine Post, according to the organizer of the Navy-Marine Post in St. Paul, is "to preserve and stimulate that fine old sea-going atmosphere of the Navy and that wonderful esprit de corps of the Marine Corps under the inspiring banner of the American Legion." Thirty maritime Posts have already been organized.

"Soldiers and sailors receive first consideration for appointment by Uncle Sam if they are qualified," declared William C. Deming, president of the United States Civil Service Commission, in advising American Legion service officers here that approximately 315,000 claims for preference in appointment to positions in the classified civil service have been allowed by the United States Civil Service Commission under the veteran preference act of March 3, and that these figures do not mean that the Federal civil force has been increased by the appointment of veterans," said Mr. Deming. "The fact is that there has been a reduction of more than 360,000 em-

'Cause the Goblins Will Git You-- ployes since the armistice. But the turnover in a force so large as the Federal civil service requires from 50,000 to 75,000 appointments each year to fill vacancies, notwithstanding the net reductions."

To satisfy the demands of the relatives of boys who are buried on the battlefields of France, Frederick J. Church senior vice-commander of Charles W. Heiser Post of the American Legion in Brooklyn, sailed for France on May 23 to photograph the graves of the dead. Mr. Church and his wife expect to spend three months at the task. They received thousands of requests for photographs of graves. Besides taking photographs, Mr. and Mrs. Church will place flowers on the graves that relatives request. The idea was born at a meeting of Heiser Post where it was decided that the privilege of having a photograph of the soldier who lies in Flanders' Fields, should not be denied anyone. Mr. Church volunteered to take up the task. He served two years in France during the war.

FROST'S REPORT

Numerous outbreaks of white pine blister rust in various sections of the State have been reported recently by county agents and temporary scouts, according to the report made by W. O. Frost of the Maine Forest Service. State leader in blister rust control work.

Mr. Frost declared that most pine owners are now beginning to realize that white pine blister rust must be reckoned with if the white pine is to hold its position in the future lumber trade. During the months of May and June in York, Cumberland, Sagadahoc and Androscoggin Counties and the town of Old Town a total of 426 owners were protecting the white pine crop on 9420 acres of pine lands, destroying over half a million wild currant and gooseberry bushes and 4090 cultivated currant and gooseberry bushes. This protection work was done at a cost of about 28 cents an acre to the owners.

While on the subject of poisonous plants, perhaps it would be well to mention that I have read in several floral articles a warning to be careful about the plants we let children put into the mouth. Among those against which we are especially warned are lily-of-the-valley, all kinds of narcissus, and monkshood, a tall, dark-blue flower which we sometimes hear called lady slipper, and from which the deadly aconite is derived. In fact, its botanical name is Aconitum. When I was a child I once sucked the honey from a blossom of this and my lips were numb and "buzzy" for more than an hour. After I grew up, a lady told me that she and another little girl once ate a blossom in school, just because some one told them not to, and their curiosity tempted them to find out what it would do to them. They found out! The other girl was nauseated, the one who told me about it fell out of her seat in an unconscious condition, and both children were very sick for several hours. Perhaps after all the parents of my childhood companions were wise to teach their children that all unfamiliar plants and berries were "poison."

STUDYING EARTHQUAKES

"The Most Significant Year in History of Earthquake Hazards."

A year ago last Tuesday an earthquake shock in the northeastern part of the country and Canada opened a 12-month called "the most significant year in the history of earthquake hazards" the Engineering-Economics Foundation points out in a statement.

"When we examine the story further, however, we find not only that United States has been widely affected but also that earthquakes in many lands, especially Japan, Mexico, South America, Jamaica and the Channel Islands, have played their part in the widespread story.

"Measured by the significance of the lessons taught, the year ranks first. No year has given more lessons to mankind of the possible dangers of earthquake shock or of the way to meet those dangers."

Eleven States have enacted teacher tenure laws. These laws generally prescribe a period of probation for teachers before permanent appointment and guarantee security in their position during good behavior and efficiency.

Red Elder and Other Plants

A favorite among lovers of plants is Primula Obconica, though I believe it is sometimes called by various fanciful names besides. Within a few years there have been numerous complaints in a well known floral magazine that the plant is poisonous to the touch. Several flower lovers have been obliged to discard it on this account, while others write that they have had it in their collection for many years, have always handled it freely, potting and repotting it and never experiencing the slightest discomfort from the plant.

Many times when I was young and foolish have I run my hands through a bed of poison ivy, picking the leaves and branches as freely as though they were some ordinary garden plant, and never did it poison me; but I ceased this bravado abruptly when a relative told me an experience of her own youthful days. She too was fond of "showing off" and she too could handle poison ivy without ill results, until one day she went too far in demonstrating to another girl what wonderful things she could do, and rubbed crushed leaves over her face, with the result that she came near losing her eyes, and wore bandages over her face for several weeks. After that she could never handle the plant even slightly without being poisoned. Since hearing her experience I have let the stuff severely alone, preferring to run no risks.

Some persons are poisoned by handling our common buttercup, especially when wet, and I have known several who cannot pick beans because the leaves irritate their skin so as to cause much discomfort for several days, though I have never known of the usual "poison blister" being caused thereby.

All this goes to prove that there are plants which are perfectly innocent and harmless to some persons, while poisoning others severely if not dangerously. This brings me to the point aimed at in writing this article. It seems that there are many others besides Mr. Lufkin who rise up in defense of the red elder and proclaim its innocence. It has therefore occurred to me that this may be one of those plants which so seldom do injury that its poisonous properties are not generally known or even suspected; but at Thordike Station, where the two cases occurred which I mentioned in a former article, the subject was common talk, and people in that region avoided the plant as they would avoid a case of small pox. The name of the child was Lillian Ainslie Rollins, the parents were Sam and Marie Rollins, and though it was many years ago and that little girl must be now a middle-aged woman I have no doubt she warns her children most carefully to beware of the red elder. Perhaps the variety which grew so plentifully about the railroad track at Thordike Station may have had unusually noxious properties—perhaps persons living there were unusually susceptible to vegetable poisons—perhaps we imagined all that poison and suffering—and perhaps I am an unusually obstinate woman, but though the whole world rise up in defense of this handsome bush, I know it poisons me, so I shall always avoid its proximity if possible.

Then, in films of marvelous splendor, spectacular and dramatic in the extreme, the Hebrews are seen to safely pass between the walls of water, and Pharaoh's army was, in a twinkling, overwhelmed by the majestic sweep of the water, in a gathering together that almost allowed the tumult to be heard—so realistic was the scene.

To the writer's way of thinking, this scene, and the giving of the Law to Moses on the Mount, were the most striking, tremendously impressive, of the whole film.

Next, Moses on the Mount, awe and inspired by divine revelation, and receiving, amid the lightning and convulsion of Nature, the Tablets of the Law, engraved on stone, by the hand of God; down below, the people given over to the worship of the Golden Calf. How striking and true to life, appeared these films, how varied and colorful, in human details, most interestingly viewed.

A CONVICT'S VERSION

"The Ten Commandments," which will be seen at Park Theatre shortly, was presented some time ago in Charlestown State Prison. The following article concerning it was written by Jesse H. Pomeroy who has spent 42 years in the institution, and who spends much of his time writing. "The Ten Commandments" sets out, in wonderful and varied films, the history of the Israelites in bondage, in Egypt; Pharaoh in all his magnificent power, the weight of Heaven's displeasure on the Egyptians, culminating in the 10th plague—the slaying of the first born of all living creatures in Egypt—including Pharaoh's son—and the desperate command of Pharaoh, to let the Hebrews go. Moses, the man inspired—the leader and guard of his people, was the central figure in a series of unsurpassed films—so life-like and various, that we marvel how they could be produced. The sombre and stately architecture of Egypt, the crude, yet, efficient mechanical labor—where brute strength was the chief element, under the stinging lash of the taskmasters—the almost barbaric magnificence of Pharaoh's Court and power, all were well presented; then the limitless sands of the desert—Moses leading his people, finally, at the shore of the Red Sea, the frantic Israelites—hemmed in by the flood before, and the hosts of Pharaoh in the rear, seeking to overwhelm them, saw opened before their despairing gaze, a pathway through and beyond the waters, at the command of Moses.

Then, in films of marvelous splendor, spectacular and dramatic in the extreme, the Hebrews are seen to safely pass between the walls of water, and Pharaoh's army was, in a twinkling, overwhelmed by the majestic sweep of the water, in a gathering together that almost allowed the tumult to be heard—so realistic was the scene.
